

NextGen Media Lab # 1

"NextGen Media Lab is a four-day, hands-on digital media camp designed for students interested in storytelling, creativity, and communication. Campers will explore how content is created for modern platforms through guided projects in short-form video, vlogging, podcasting, and YouTube-style media. Students will learn the fundamentals of planning, filming, editing, and publishing content while emphasizing audience awareness, collaboration, and responsible media use. Throughout the week, campers will work individually and in teams to create original media projects that reflect their voice and ideas."
